PREFACE.

To make documents relating to the recent war available to historical investigators, it is necessary to print them. For this procedure the precedent was set in the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion.

Those records were arranged, before publication, according to military operations. It is found, however, that arrangement of the documents now in question according to this plan will involve great delay; in the case of the Rebellion Records, the first volume was not issued until 1880. A classification has therefore been adopted which will permit publication of each set of documents independently, as it becomes available, each new volume as published fitting into its proper place in the general scheme. This classification is given in tabular form on the following page.

The text is as nearly as possible a reproduction of the original, including errors.

The records are classified for publication as follows:

Field Orders,
No. 16.

2nd Corps,
FRANCE, 24 Sept. 18.

MAPS: 1: 20,000 62 C N. E., 62B N. W., 57C S. E., 57B S. W., DIAGRAMATICAL SKETCH.

1. SITUATION.

The enemy opposite the front to be occupied by the 2nd American Corps September 24th and 25th holds the HINDENBURG LINE in force. The salient feature of this line is the CAMBRAI—ST. QUENTIN Canal which runs thru a tunnel from a point 1500 yds. S. E. of VENDHUILE to a point 1000 yds. South of BELLICOURT.

The Fourth Army will attack the HINDENBURG DEFENCES between VENDHUILE and ST. QUENTIN at an hour and on a date to be notified later:

The IX Corps will attack on the right and simultaneously with the 2nd American Corps.

The III Corps will be on our left and will not attack but will hold a defensive front between the 2nd American Corps and the V Corps until the 2nd American Corps has reached the green line. When the troops of the II American Corps commence their exploitation towards the dotted Green Line, the III Corps will mop up the ground West of the canal.

2. GENERAL PLAN.

The 2nd American Corps affiliated with the Australian Corps will attack the enemy's positions in the HINDENBURG line in the sector NAUROY—GOUY (both inclusive) on a date and hour to be notified later. There will be a preliminary bombardment by all available artillery lasting for a considerable period. The object of this preliminary bombardment will be—

- (a) To complete the demoralization of the enemy;
- (b) The destruction of the enemy's defences, including wire, dugouts, etc.

The attack will be carried out on a frontage of two (2) divisions. The boundaries and objectives of divisions are shown on the attached map.

3. (a) PRELIMINARY OPERATIONS.

The present situation on the battle front is as follows:

The front line is in the advanced HINDENBURG Line as far north as the Inter-Divisional boundary for the operation. North of this the front line is now along the old BRITISH OUTPOST Line. The III Corps has undertaken to make every endeavour to seize the front line of the HINDENBURG system before its relief by the 27th American Division. If it succeeds in doing this the forming up line as shown in dotted BROWN on the attached map will be available. If the III Corps does not succeed in doing this it will be necessary for the 27th American Division to undertake a definite operation in order to seize the advanced line of the HINDENBURG system.

During the period that this operation takes place the 30th American Division will advance posts to such a position as will enable it to ensure that the forming up line on its sector will be sufficiently protected.

(b) MAIN OPERATION.

The main operation will be divided into two phases as follows:

(1) First Phase. The 30th American Division on the right and the 27th American Division on the left will form up on a taped line prior to the given zero hour and will attack with Tanks under a creeping artillery barrage. This barrage will include a considerable proportion of smoke shell.

The start line is shown in BROWN on the attached map and the objectives are shown in a continuous GREEN line.

The flanks of the attack will be protected by a smoke screen which will be provided by one Field Artillery Brigade on each flank. As soon as the artillery barrage programme is completed and the infantry have seized the objective, the green line, the smoke barrage on the flanks will lift outwards in order to enable the infantry to exploit their success toward the flanks under the concealment of the flanking smoke barrages: to the North with a view to assisting the advance of the V Corps over the canal, and to protecting the Australian Corps left in their advance to the Red Line; to the South with a view to assisting the IX Corps in their advance across the canal, and to protecting the Australian Corps right in their advance to the Red Line.

(2) Second Phase. The 5th Australian Division on the right and the 3rd Australian Division on the left, each with its own Divisional Artillery and a proportion of Tanks, and organized in Brigade Groups, will pass through the 30th and 27th American Divisions respectively in open warfare formations at a time to be decided later. Their objective is shown in RED on the attached map.

In order to secure the flanks of this operation and to extend the base of the salient created by the advance, the reserve troops of the 30th and 27th American Divisions will extend their operations to the south and north respectively with the object of seizing the objectives shown in RED on the attached Map.

A proportion of artillery which will be allotted from the barrage guns and will be withdrawn as soon as the barrage programme is completed, will be placed at the disposal of each Divisional Commander for this.

A proportion of Tanks will be similarly allotted.

A detailed programme and Time Table will be issued.

The troops which captured the first objectives will be reassembled after the whole of the brigades detailed to the second objective have passed through them. The time for this re-assembly will be notified. They will be prepared to advance Eastwards on a one-Division front, in touch with the Australian Corps on their right and with the V Corps of the Third Army on their left.

(c) ASSEMBLY.

The line will be ehld prior to the operation by the 30th and 27th American Divisions, each with one regiment in the line supported by one regiment and each with one brigade in reserve.

The capture of the first objective will be carried out by the reserve brigade in each case.

The capture of the second objective allotted to the American Divisions will be carried out by the supporting regiment of the line brigade, the line regiment of the line brigade passing into reserve at a stage which is indicated later.

The programme will be so arranged that the two attacking Brigade Groups of the 5th and 3rd Australian Divisions respectively will pass through the American troops as soon as possible after the latter have attained the first objective. These two brigades will follow the regiments of the 30th and 27th American Divisions respectively allotted to the capture of the RED line. The reserve brigades of the 5th and 3rd Australian Divisions will then be passed through the gap. The last infantry to pass through the gap from the west to the east side of the canal will be the regiments of the 30th and 27th American Divisions who were originally holding the line and now pass into reserve.

The order of movement across the tunnel will be therefore:—

“A” and “B” Regiments of the 30th and 27th American Divisions (that is the attacking brigade in each case.)

“C” Regiment of the 30th and 27th American Divisions (that is the supporting regiment of the brigade originally in the line).

"A" and "B" Brigades of the 5th and 3rd Australian Divisions.

"C" Brigade of the 5th and 3rd Australian Divisions moving in Divisional Reserve.

"D" Regiment of the 30th and 27th American Divisions (that is the regiment which was holding the line when the attack began). This regiment will be concentrated immediately the last Australian brigade has passed through and will then move according to the orders of the respective Divisional Commanders.

(See diagramatic sketch enclosed.)

Assembly areas will be selected and allotted for each American Regiment and each Australian Brigade in such positions as will best permit of this order of movement being carried out.

(d) ROAD MOVEMENT.

The country over which the attack will pass in its early stages is very much shell-pitted and all roads have been very badly damaged.

To enable guns and ammunition wagons and the Armoured Cars to pass across this area the Chief Engineer of the Corps has arranged to develop four roads as rapidly as possible.

The Chief Engineer of the Australian Corps will have at his disposal the five Australian Pioneer Battalions plus such proportion of the American Engineering personnel as may be necessary.

Every body of troops will be allotted its own definite road and will on no account use any other. Maps will be issued later showing the roads allotted in each case.

Careful traffic control will be organized and all ranks must be warned beforehand and must be prepared to adhere to the traffic rules strictly.

The bivouac areas will be selected in positions which will be convenient to the roads to which each body of troops is allotted.

- (iii) Message Carrying Rockets will be made available and will be issued early.

(b) All ranks will be provided with a metal disc sown on to the reverse side of the Box Respirator, which will be used for signalling to our aeroplanes when they sound the Klaxon horn, to indicate the position of the troops.

Red flares will be issued and will be lit for the same purpose when the aeroplane calls.

All ranks must be made to understand that when the aeroplane calls the flares must be lit and the discs shown.

(c) The organization of the troops for the first phase of the operation will ensure that definite bodies are allotted for duty at each entrance to the tunnel with the object of dealing with any of the enemy who may have taken refuge in the tunnel during the bombardment and barrage. These troops must on no account be withdrawn from their tasks until the tunnel is completely clear of the enemy.

(d) All troops must be warned of the absolute necessity of keeping as close up to the barrage as safety permits in order to deal with the enemy before he can recover after the barrage has passed.

(e) A very liberal supply of—

- (i) Operation map;
- (ii) Message Maps;
- (iii) Oblique and trench photos.
